College Invites Seniors to Visit Campus, April 27

Campus visitors, Monday, April 27, were seniors from the high schools in northwest Missouri. Registration was from 9:00 to 10:30, Monday morning, in the Administration Building.

Morning activity included a tour of the College, seeing points of interest such as the Library, Residence Hall, Home Economics House, the Lake, Home Gymnasium, the Stadium, Horace Mann Laboratory School, College Farm, Men's Quadrangle, Industrial Arts Building, and the Union Building.

Have Exhibition

At the gymnasium, a diving and swimming exhibition was presented by Sigma Phi Dolphins under the direction of Miss Bonnie Magill; gymnastics and games were demonstrated by "M" Club members.

Entries are to be limited to twenty books of which not more than ten should be concentrated in one area of interest. The books should be indicative of a wide interest and an appreciation of culture of the student.

Mrs. Elaine Mauzy and Dr. Kelley Sowards will judge the collections. Prizes will be awarded at the Honors Day Assembly, May 22.

Annual Assembly Program Is Given By Concert Band

The Concert Band under the direction of Mr. John L. Smay, acting chairman of the division of music, presented its annual assembly concert at the College recently, prior to the annual band tour.

Featured on the program were Marilyn Brown and Gordon Robertson, cornet soloists. Miss Brown, a sophomore music major, played "Prelude-Scherzo," by Ernest Williams. Mr. Robertson, accompanied by the band, played a Concerto by Mendelssohn.

Popular selections such as "Blue Tango" and "The Toy Trumpet" were presented as well as classical selections from "The King and I" and from the opera "Khovanshchina."

"Stars and Stripes Forever," by John Philip Sousa, closed the program.

Ford Foundation Fellowship Goes To Dr. K. Sowards

Dr. J. Kelley Sowards, member of the faculty in the Language and Literature Division at Northwest Missouri State College, has received a Ford Foundation faculty research fellowship for 1953-54. He will work in Washington, D. C., in the Library of Congress, collecting bibliographical material in the field of the later Middle Ages and the Renaissance, pertinent to the study and teaching of the Humanities.

The fellowship is one of 200 granted with varying stipends under the auspices of the Committee for the Advancement of Education. The purpose of the fellowship is to prepare teachers for more effective teaching in their own and related fields. These teachers have discovered problems which they feel need further research and have been granted the fellowship in order that they might conduct the research in their own particular phases of study.

Dr. Sowards teaches classes in Humanities which is a course designed to acquaint the student with the best literature, art, and architecture both before and since the Renaissance. He became a member of the College faculty in 1951.

In applying for the fellowship, Dr. Sowards submitted a written essay to the Committee on his project. The result of this essay, recommendations from the schools which he attended, his scholastic standing, his teaching record, and the suitability of his project were factors which warranted the granting of the Ford Foundation fellowship.

Horace Mann Grades Have Spring Carnival

Miss Chloe Millikan announced that the annual Spring Carnival was held under the sponsorship of the parents and staff of the Early Childhood Division of the Horace Mann Laboratory School, Friday, April 24 from 7 to 10 p. m.

Pie, sandwiches, coffee, and soft drinks were served throughout the evening.

Northwest Missourian Receives First Place Award

Northwest Missourian Wins Columbia Journalism Award

By THELMA BUCKLEY

The Northwest Missourian confesses that it feels rather happy!

In the annual journalism contest sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, it scored 942 points out of a possible 1000. Judging of papers was done by the Columbia University School of Journalism, and the Missourian was rated in competition with other state college newspapers with no distinction being made as to the size of the school.

Scoring Is In Four Areas

Scoring in the contest was as follows: content, 280 out of a possible 300; writing and editing, 382 out of a possible 400; make-up, 190 out of a possible 200; general considerations, 90 out of a possible 100.

Writing and editing are the features rated highest by the judges. "Some old humor that can be equalled in the 'New Yorker'" was the comment on the two humor columns, The Stroller and They're Talking About. Other sections of the College paper rated high praise but some criticism was given on the play on social news in the coverage of the campus.

"Some over play on social news items (homecoming and popularity polls, lovely lassies, etc.)," says one judge. "It's true," he adds, "there is no substitute for a beautiful girl—but, is this college news?"

Staff Studies Criticism

Members of the Northwest Missourian staff have given the criticism careful thought and have decided that the lovely lassies are really not news on the campus but they certainly help to make it. At any rate, the College paper is "one of superior achievement," conclude the judges; and Editor Bob Andrews and the other staff members are not going to argue the matter.

Kay Sawyer Receives Indiana Scholarship

Miss Kay Sawyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Sawyer, Bedford, Iowa, senior student at Northwest Missouri State College, has been selected for a part-time instructorship in the English department of Indiana University for the 1953-54 academic year. She will teach freshman English composition classes while working toward her Master's degree.

Kay will be graduated this spring with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education, with a double major in English and music. Her selection for this position is an outstanding honor.

Pre-registration for the summer session will be held during the week of May 4-8. The semester ends Friday, May 29, with registration on the following Monday, June 1; therefore, all students planning to attend summer school are urged to arrange their program during pre-registration week.

It will be necessary to obtain permits in the Registrar's office. The policy of allowing a certain number of registrants each hour will be followed again.

Since advisement sheets are not available to the advisor on the day of registration, Mr. Foster is requesting everyone to register during the appointed week.

Seniors who expect to be graduated at the close of the summer session and who have not previously signed their application for graduation should do so immediately.

Ten Independents Attend Meeting at Purdue University

April may be a month for spring fever, but the members of the Independent Club have found little time to enjoy the annual malady.

Ten members of the club left the College campus Wednesday morning, April 22, at the early hour of 4:00 a.m. to journey to Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. At Purdue the group attended the convention of the National Student Association. The application of the Independent group on the campus for membership in the national organization was considered at this meeting. The group returned to Maryville April 26.

Members of the club making the trip are Audra Williams, Wayne McDaniell, Joyce Brown, Pat Sheppard, Joan Kowitz, Sue Shields, Iris Reece, Bob Hull, Jack Slaughter, and Eddie Carlson.

"April Showers" was the theme of the Independent spring formal held in the lounge of the Union Saturday, April 11. Amid a spring scene of umbrellas and flower gardens, Independents and their dates danced to the music of Ray Kirk's band.

During intermission a program built around the theme was presented. At this time Marilyn Litten was presented with a scroll and named the club's senior-of-the-year.

College Group Attends Annual Study Meetings

Miss Neva Ross, Miss Anna Gorsuch, Mrs. Esther McDonald, and Mrs. Pauline Arthur left Friday evening, April 8, for Denver, Colorado, where they attended the Annual Study Conference of the Association for Childhood Education International, which was held April 5 to 10.

All attended study work-shop groups that were led by nationally known educators who discussed problems of national concern in the area of "Better Education for Children and Teachers."

Audience-Participation Opera Will Feature Cast of Horace Mann and College Students

By MARY ANN FORD

"Let's Make an Opera," an audience-participation opera by Benjamin Britten, contemporary English composer, is the spring production of the music division scheduled for presentation in the College auditorium, May 12-13. Mr. Gilbert Whitney is director of the production. Mr. Robert Gee is the stage director.

Since the production is both an opera and a play, each of the members of the cast has two roles.

Mary Ann Davis, soprano, is playing Pamela Wilton of the play and the corresponding role of Rowan, the nursery-maid in the opera. She is a freshman elementary student from Mount Airy, Iowa.

Is Double Cast

Double cast in the parts of Rowan and Pamela is Jean Ann Jameson. A freshman this year, Jean Ann is a music major from McFall, Minn.

Mrs. Farworthy of the play and the crusty, cantankerous Miss Baggott of the opera are played by Mary Ann Ford, contralto. Mary Ann is an elementary major from Shenandoah, Iowa, and is a sophomore.

Mary White, junior music major, is playing Anne Dougall of the play and that of the 14-year old Juliet of the opera. Mary, a soprano, lives in Maryville.

Sings Cruel Sweepmaster

Norman Chaffinch of the play is played by Joe McClure, bass. In the opera, Joe sings Black Bob, the cruel sweepmaster. Joe is a freshman music major from Blinn, Texas.

Tenor Daniel Evans plays Max Westleton of the play, and Clem, the sweepmaster's cruel son, in the opera. Daniel is a mathematics major from New Hampton, and a sophomore.

Plays Mr. Harper

Mr. Whitney, vocal director, is Mr. Harper of the play, and the Conductor of the opera.

Children from Horace Mann appearing in the production are Stephen Smay, Leroy Gray, Jimmie Dinsdale, Hollis White, Pamela Hamilton, Linda Reakseker, Bob Willis, Leland Long, Robert Bryan, H. C. Bauman, Jacqueline Johnson, Shayron Kay Thompson, and Rita Jo Edwards.

Tells a Story

The play itself takes place in Mrs. Farworthy's drawing room. She tells a group of children the following story:

A poor boy, Sammy, is sold to Black Bob and his son, Clem, the sweepmasters. He is forced up into the blackness of his first chimney, and is shaking with fright. Juliet and the other children discover him and come to his rescue. With the aid of Rowan they trick Miss Baggott and help him to escape.

Next the children prepare the story for opera. Since it is an audience participation production, the audience is coached in the singing after the play.

The third act, or opera, begins now, with each of the characters becoming a member of the opera.

Over Two Hundred Parents Register For Special Day

More than 200 parents registered for the second annual Parents' Day event held on the campus, Friday, April 10.

Various class and departmental demonstrations, exhibits, and student-conducted tours were provided for the visiting parents from 1 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. A special assembly in the College auditorium climaxed the day's activities.

Judging by attendance, the swimming show and the demonstrations given by the home economics department on fashions and foods proved to be the most popular. All classes except those participating in demonstrations were dismissed for the afternoon.

President J. W. Jones and Herschel Neil, president of the student body, welcomed the parents at the evening program. The acting class, under the direction of their instructor, Mr. Ralph E. Fulsom, presented one act of a play. The Dance Club illustrated its "Color Wheel" number under the direction of Miss Doris Hysler. Directed by Mr. Gilbert Whitney, the Tower Choir sang five selections and concluded the program by joining with the audience in the singing of the "Alma Mater."

In the afternoon members of the College faculty acted as hosts at a tea given in the main lounge of the Union Building.

Members of the committee in charge of the schedule for the day were Dr. Frank W. Grube, chairman, Mr. Kenneth E. Bird, Miss Doris Hysler, Mrs. Elaine Mauzy, Mr. James Johnson, Mr. Ryland Milner, and Mr. Irving S. Spigle.

Cyril Dougherty Gains Second Spot in Senate As 493 Students Cast Ballots for Top Officers

Stan Ogden and Cyril Dougherty were elected president and vice-president, respectively, of the Student Senate for the school year of 1953-54 in the final election, April 7, as 493 students cast ballots.

With the official returns crediting Ogden with 250 votes against 243 for Carter Eotkin, the race became one of the closest in College history. The new president is from Maryville and has a double major in physical education and mathematics.

During this year he has served on the Intramural Commission and has participated in varsity football. Socially he is a member of the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity.

In the vice-presidential race, Cyril Dougherty won over Maxine DeShon by a comfortable margin.

Cyril is from Fairfax and is a member of the Independent Club. He has a major in social science and a minor in Spanish. This spring he was initiated into Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary education fraternity.

In the primary election, April 1, Joan Kowitz was eliminated from the presidential race and Bob Dillon from the campaign for the second part on the ticket. At this time senators were elected from the freshmen, sophomore, and junior classes.

Representatives chosen by the juniors are George Kling of Barnard and Melva Helts of Craig. Sophomore Senators are Margaret Murray of Albany and Fred Hanahan of Guilford. The lone freshman office holder elected is Rick Tilton of St. Joseph. New senators were sworn in at the regular meeting, April 9.

Members of the Horace Mann Student Council attended the regular Student Senate meeting, April 9.

Miss Mattie Dykes Attends State and National Meetings

Miss Mattie M. Dykes, of the English department, spoke to the Louisiana Press Association at a meeting in New Orleans, April 26, on the importance of the organization of the press women of the state.

Mr. Sandford, who studied with Paul Doktor, is a member of the faculty of the Music Department at Northwest Missouri State College. He holds a Master of Music degree from the University of Michigan. Mrs. Sandford also holds a master's degree from the University of Michigan where she studied with Joseph Brinkham.

Open With Handel

To open the program the musicians played "Sonata in G Minor" by George Frederick Handel. Next on the program was "Pascaglia on an Old English Tune" by Rebecca Clarke and "Notturno," Opus 42, by Ludwig van Beethoven.

The "Sonata in G Minor" is an early work of Handel's. This edition of the sonata is issued by its transcriber, Milton Katims, as being taken from a 'cello sonata. In reality the work was originally a concerto for oboe and string orchestra.

"Pascaglia" is a later composition of Miss Clarke's and represents a great change of style and mood from her earlier works. The frills and furbelows of the sonata are replaced by a seriousness and intensity that is seldom equaled by a composer.

Except for the second movement the charming "Notturno" is not of the Chopin-type nocturnes, but (Continued on Page Four)

Let's Make An Opera

"Let's Make an Opera," Benjamin Britten's delightful audience-participation musical, will bring a new form of entertainment to the campus. Since it is a departure from the usual operatic performance, the audience will not play a passive part, but instead will aid in creating the mood and characters in the production.

This, then, gives the audience the pleasant task of singing three songs, "The Sweep's Song," "Sammy's Bath," and "The Coaching Song," during the course of the production. With the opera being sung by the audience, and in English, added enjoyment is afforded the listener.

As the story of Sammy, the little sweep, unfolds on the College stage the audience will actually be experiencing the thrill of "making an opera."—Mary Ann Ford

Why Not?

ALDERMAN for a day! MAYOR for a day! QUEEN for a day! Why not PROFESSOR for a day? Yes, seriously, why not select a day when some from among the student ranks would throw off their ordinary identity, assume the prefix PROFESSOR, and each teach one class?

Many cities in co-operation with their educational systems hold this type of program valuable, as it is designed to acquaint the younger generation with the workings of city government and further their interests in good citizenship. It succeeds admirably and usually evokes intense interest among the students.

Perhaps the student instructor of each class could be selected by a vote of the students in a parliamentary session. The appointments should be made sufficiently in advance to allow the student instructor adequate preparation. One should bear in mind that this is not designed to furnish a holiday to the instructors or to the students, but that an honest, sincere effort should be made on the part of all concerned to make this day as interesting as possible.

Surely the benefits would far outweigh the slight inconvenience such an arrangement would cause. It may furnish some person his only teaching opportunity, perhaps acquaint some student with the problems an instructor has to face, or even give the instructor a new approach or perspective to his class.—Bob Wilson.

There Is a Need

College education means much more than a mere absorbing of information from a stack of books. In addition to this formal learning, there is the ever present need for development in gracious living.

Organizations on the campus contribute much to this learning. As a member of an organization, the student must learn to work in harmony with others his own age. He must learn how to help with decisions and to think of methods of improvement and progress.

Organizations are not the only way that a student may learn gracious living. Classwork offers many opportunities for the development of this trait. For example, when a limited number of books are available for an assignment, a student who has any consideration for others will not hoard the books for his own personal benefit. Such is not an example of gracious living. Also, the thoughtful student realizes that the instructor is not a machine but an individual who appreciates respect and cooperation.

In classwork, in dorm and quad life, in just everyday "gab" sessions in the Bearcats' Den, the student who is getting something more out of college than a book education, will realize his responsibilities toward others. Consideration, friendliness, cooperation, responsibility—all are attributes of gracious living that may be developed if only the student will work at it.—Thelma Buckley.

A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesses.—Luke 12:15.

I never met a man I didn't like.—Will Rogers

Fine Arts Class Displays Work On Second Floor

Exhibits of paintings in watercolor and oil, which have been on display in the second floor hall of the Administration building, are the works of students in the spring semester of Fine Arts 101, drawing and painting. The students represented had no previous experience in the oil medium and only one previous experience in drawing and painting, that using charcoal and watercolor.

The course began with a review of theories of composition, design, and color applied to advanced studies.

Subjects represented in the exhibit included in oil painting were still life setups of vases and backgrounds for color and composition, and still-lives with the setups grouped around a central theme. Success in the solution of this problem developed the ability to do the more difficult flower painting. According to the choice of the student, this step was followed by abstractions or non-objective compositions emphasizing the third dimension.

Use Direct Method

All of the first oil paintings were done by the "direct method," after the manner of Franz Hals, a Dutch painter of the Seventeenth Century. The color used was based upon either the impressionistic painting of the Nineteenth Century or the extreme objective painting of color of the Twentieth Century.

Further painting processes were developed by using the technique of painting with the palette knife, modifying the color by painting into a prepared background, suggesting shadow through a skim coat, and building up vibrations in color through successive glazes.

The course includes figure drawing and painting and some work in portraiture and landscape.

Examples of abstracts were done by Barbara Beaver, Jackie Donaldson, and Virdean Dorman. In the watercolor group, "After the Dance," by Jackie Donaldson, is particularly attractive. In oil, the study of geraniums by Virdean Dorman and the Dresden figure by Barbara Beaver are outstanding.

College Certifies State Contests

Seven individual contestants were certified to represent Northwest Missouri in the state commercial contest in Columbia, April 25, at the annual commerce contests held at Maryville State College, April 8.

Those who were certified are as follows: Donna Redding, Marysville, bookkeeping; Patty Rae Schlitz, Ravanna, Shorthand I; Jo Ann Cochran, Excelsior Springs, Shorthand II; Ruth Busby, Maryville, Typing I, speed and accuracy; Louis Bugh, Carrollton, Typing II, speed and accuracy; Imojean Fisher, Marysville, Typing I, production; Patty Rae Schlitz, Ravanna, Typing II, production.

Seven teams placed first in the contest and are certified to represent Northwest Missouri in the state contests also. The teams are as follows: Jefferson of Clyde, bookkeeping; Mound City, Shorthand I, Carrollton, Shorthand II; Albany, Typing I, speed and accuracy; Carrollton, Typing II, speed and accuracy; Marysville, Typing I, production; Carrollton, Typing II, production.

If it is impossible for any individual or team listed to enter the state contest, the second individual or team in each event shall be eligible to enter as an alternate.

Ten Years Ago

April 21 Senate elections were the big topic of discussion. Two were candidates for the presidency, Dennis Davidson and J. Luther Dougan, and two were candidates for the vice-presidency, Elaine Gorsuch and Mona Alexander.

College men worked to save the Brownville Bridge in Atchison County which was threatened by flood waters of the Missouri River. It was estimated that the men who went to the flood district from Maryville filled 9,000 sacks of dirt and sand.

Plans for the Junior-Senior banquet, which was to be held May 1, were almost completed. A reminder was issued that Junior class dues were to be paid as soon as possible. May 5

J. Luther Dougan and Mona Alexander were chosen president and vice president of the student body at the election April 28.

An announcement stating that the Tower would be out May 15 and no later appeared in the Northwest Missourian. The Tower was smaller that year than it had been. Students were told not to blame it on the staff but to blame it on Hitler.

Miss Dykes was accused by the Stroller of having "talked" a telephone off the wall. It seems the one on which she was talking suddenly fell from the wall into her hands.

Several faculty members and students attended the opera, "The Barber of Seville," at St. Joseph, Thursday night, April 28.

Mr. Edward Anderson, superintendent of schools at Alton, Iowa, was a visitor on the campus recently. Both Mr. Anderson and his son are former students of the College.

"Origins of the New South"

The magnificent study under consideration is a monumental treatment of a neglected period of Southern history between 1877 and 1913 and is thoroughly revisionist in every respect regarding traditional misconceptions and clichés.

Those acquainted with previous books written by Professor Woodward will recognize the same painstaking research, the detached viewpoint, and critical analysis characterizing this monograph. Principally, it is the story of the Redeemers' (Reconstructed) Rebels who turned their back on the agrarian past of the South and wanted to industrialize, struggle in establishing the "New Order" in the post-Reconstruction South, centered around the theme of cheap resources, business opportunities for men with capital, railroad development schemes, and commercial enterprise superimposed on the romantic tradition of the Confederacy. The process produces the many antagonisms, bitter struggles for leadership, the cult of white supremacy, and the many paradoxes which are the South.

In spite of the rise of the so-called "solid South" based on the premise of white supremacy, discord, as well as economics and political cleavages, continued to characterize the section in this period as they had in the ante-bellum years. There is much in this volume that lends understanding to the present dilemma of conservative Southern Democrats who are, and always have been, more in sympathy with old line Whig principles. For historic reasons, however, and because of the primary of civil rights and race issues in Southern politics, they have never been willing to join forces with the Republican Party. Temporary coalitions in Congress and the South's conduct in the Election of 1932 may well cause speculation as to the future nature of Southern politics, as certainly they are exceptions to the above generalization.

Dr. Woodward minutely examines the major problem of the "New South": which way should she throw her weight in the impending struggle over national issues? Should she re-align herself with the agrarian West (as in the days of Jackson), join forces with other rebellious forces such as Eastern labor, or combine with Northern conservatives and reinforce the new capitalistic order which already had remade the Northeast and imposed its gospel of wealth and progress upon the nation? The author throws new light on the disputed election of 1876 by examining the alliance between Republicans and Southern conservatives, motivated by the economic interests of the Southern Redeemers. This enabled the Republicans to organize the House and realize the election of Hayes by the Electoral Commission, but the alliance was breached by the wiles of agrarian radicalism which swept the South after 1878. He points out how the doctrine of laissez-faire became almost a test of Southern patriotism and how the efforts of "wild populists" such as "Pitchfork" Ben Tillman and Tom Watson came to naught. In the period after 1900 a touch of progressivism visited the South, but it was for whites only.

This remarkable book tells the intricate story of the establishment of a new system of caste, the development of a new economy, and the achievement of a social revolution of the South, ending with the return of the section to political power, at least temporarily, with the election of Woodrow Wilson. The reviewer considers this a model book for exhaustive research, penetrating insight, and judicious interpretation. A gap is filled in the history of the South which hitherto has received little or no broad treatment. Though this is not a popularly written book in the literary sense, it is indispensable to the student and teacher of American history, and there is much to interest and reward the efforts of any layman who seeks understanding of an important phase of our nation's development.

Local Red Cross Sponsors a Blood Drive on Campus

The Red Cross chapter of Maryville sponsored a blood drive on the campus Thursday, April 16. The bloodmobile was at Residence Hall from 10:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

News of the bloodmobile appeared in the Maryville Forum and was announced over the radio. The Northwest Missourian ran an article concerning the drive. Notes were sent to the different organizations urging them to donate.

To all of you who cooperated in donating blood to the Red Cross Bloodmobile when it was on Campus I wish to address thanks.

The fine cooperation of Kappa Omicron Phi and the hostesses from Residence Hall made a special contribution to the success of the day. Again may I say thank you.

—Lon E. Wilson

Miss Gray, of the local Red Cross office, reported 147 donors, giving a total of 110 pints of blood. The rejections, it was stated by Miss Gray, ran unusually high.

The unit, sent from Kansas City, was directed by Dr. Parker and by Miss Cameron, R. N.

Two registered nurses from the local Red Cross chapter, Mrs. Frank Gerten and Mrs. W. R. Jackson worked with the unit. Canteen supervisors were Mrs. Ellis Meek and Mrs. O. D. Baker. Staff aides were Mrs. H. P. DeMott, Mrs. J. B. Cheshire, Mrs. William Foster, and Mrs. Ray Mahan. Nurse's aides were Mrs. Merline Warehime, Mrs. Roy Hutchison, Mrs. J. B. French, Mrs. Lester Shell, and Mrs. Glen Bradley.

Those from the College who worked as stenographers were Mrs. Elaine Bullock and Mrs. Dorothy Sheets.

Kappa Omicron Phi girls who helped in the canteen were Marilyn Gilliland, Roberta Kordes, Rosetta Reed, Barbara Taylor, Nadyne Courter, Harriet Watson, Mildred Maxon, Bonnie Henderson, Ann McNeal, Margaret Murray, Marty Newman, Betty Crider, Annie Lou Cowan, Joyce Brown, Carolyn Riser, Teresa Tobin, and Jean Ann Feurt. Pat Baker and Irene Schmitz were co-chairmen for this project.

Other girls serving as hostesses were Mollard Maune, Rosayn Richardson, Bonnie Campbell, Avis Murrell, Carla Haylett, Opal Carson, Berniece Short, Barbara Hoffman, Donna Walker, Barbara Douglas, Charlotte Huntsman, Ella Ray Hankins, Jean Anderson, Mae Lewis, Thelma Buckley, and Beverly Goodrich.

Winter has gone (?)
There's grass on the lawn.
This ain't no poem,
So please read on!

Since this article is written by a member of the female sex, congratulations are in order to Bonnie Dorr, who was elected the first woman president of the Student Government Organization at Warrensburg.

Did you know that this nation spends five times as much every year on dog food as it does on college textbooks for its youth? That's what the Southwest Standard, Springfield, says! Oh well, everyone says the young people are going to the dogs anyway!

A listening laboratory has been installed at Ft. Hays College, Kansas. Students signed for 54 sets of earphones the first three days. This might be a new angle for studying.

Many April Fool papers were printed in connection with the "Jinx" day. For example, the Normal News, Ypsilanti, Michigan, became the "Abnormal News," reporting such items as Marilyn Monroe, noted educator, being appointed dean of men. That news would undoubtedly go over in a big way on any campus.

Also at Ypsilanti, the Chicken Hop is on the agenda. The slogan for the dance is "You're a chicken if you don't go!" Might get results.

Students at State Teachers College at Moorhead, Minnesota, are looking ahead and have appointed Homecoming chairman for next fall.

Several colleges are featuring an "Ugly Man" contest. Anyone is eligible.

The Northwest Missourian made a first place rating in the recent newspaper contest although a little competition entered in with Kirksville and Cape Girardeau.

A Wyoming U. student remarks "It isn't so bad to sleep through all your classes, but when you start to wake up automatically every 50 minutes during the night—you've had it."

Fourteen Men Take Qualifications Test

Fourteen men from the College took the Selective Service College Qualification Examination, April 23. The test was administered in the office of Miss Rachael Taul, counselor of students.

Results of the test will determine the number of men who will have their inductions into the armed services postponed and will be permitted to remain in college.

Lawson Returns

Eldon Lawson, a member of the sports staff of the Northwest Missourian during 1942-43, attended the Parents' Day Program.

The Stroller

The Stroller has found out about some of the questions currently plaguing the students. Two of these puzzlers are:

Who were the two students who made four trips to the punch bowl at the Independent Club Dance?

What is the meaning of "mechense defanism"?

Another note on the Independents' Dance: The "Bunny Hop" is now passe, with Cyril Dougherty introducing his new "Kangaroo" step.

When the Stroller isn't strolling, he is listening to KOWH; so he knows about Pi Omega Pi fraternity guesting on a disc-jockey show.

Barbara Roush reports Bruce Walkup has a bit part in award-winning "Come Back, Little Sheba."

The Stroller caught John Lee Thompson pushing a lawnmower down the main hall of the Administration building the other day. His explanation? "Oh, I'm taking this to acting class."

The picnic season is here! Four dorm girls were seen at Rouside Park the other evening roasting weiners and eating almost frozen beans.

It's either the atmosphere of the Union cafeteria or Willy Williamson must need his glasses changed because why would he mistake meringue for a paper napkin? How does a handful of meringue feel, Willy?

Many parents were on hand for the recent Parents' Day program. The Stroller heard only favorable comments on the evening assembly.

Jackie Donaldson is remembering her last trip to the art gallery in Kansas City, now that she has made another. It was the other time that she got locked in.

One last parting shot: Carolea Pritchard ordered the Stroller not to mention her name this time. So of course, he won't.

Outlines Campaign for Lepers

Art Group Holds National Meeting

During the past week the National Art Education Association has been meeting in St. Louis. The program consisted of two days of special committee meetings on Monday and Tuesday, followed by a more general program the remainder of the week.

The association is the outgrowth of the Department of Art Education of the NEA, of which Miss Olive DeLuca, chairman of the department of fine arts of the College, is president.

The meeting was of value to art teachers on all levels. Of particular interest to Miss DeLuca were the meetings concerned with teacher education in art, which are cooperating with the American Association of Teachers of Education of which Dr. J. W. Jones, president of the College, is a director.

The National Art Association promotes the cause of art through special committees on various subjects, through research, and through publications. It has done outstanding work for international goodwill through the circulation of exhibits of children's art work from many countries. This campus has been fortunate in having had at various times such exhibits and likewise honored by having the art of Horace Mann students selected for exhibit abroad.

Art teachers of Missouri were hosts to the convention and were responsible for special luncheons, dinners, excursions to points of interest, and parts of the program. Opportunities were offered to visit the St. Louis Radio School and Television Center, the Peoples Art Center, the St. Louis Art Guild, and the Fry Stained Glass Works.

Hold Reception

A reception was held at the St. Louis Museum of Fine Arts, where in addition to the regular collections, exhibits of Swedish and Greek weaving and embroidery seldom seen in this country were shown. The opportunity was given as well to meet the artists, painters, designers, and sculptors in this region.

A number of former graduates now teaching art in other states were present. To her great surprise, in recognition and appreciation of her contribution to art in Missouri, members of the Association presented Miss DeLuca with a corsage.

Speaks at Dinner

Mr. H. R. Dieterich, principal of Horace Mann Laboratory School, spoke at a dinner given April 8, to honor the boys' and girls' basketball teams of Maitland. The dinner was given by the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion Auxiliary.

Petroleum Missourian Advertisers.

An appeal for help for the leper colony on Okinawa was printed in the April 1 issue of the Northwest Missourian.

This appeal was part of a campaign started by the 29th Infantry Regiment, aided by the 29th Infantry Women's Club and the office of Regimental Chaplain. Now, the campaign has received the attention of more than 100 towns in the United States who have indicated their willingness to help. Maryville is one of these towns.

In a letter received by Mr. Phillip L. Kearney, executive secretary of the Maryville chapter of commerce, from Joseph Driver, former student on this campus, now with the 29th Infantry Regiment, a list was given as to the type of contributions that would be useful.

Cash donations are, of course, the big item. Money, which should be sent by postal money orders, can be used to purchase items that can't normally be sent overseas. These items include such things as building materials needed to build the homes and a hospital.

Some of the hard to get and most needed items are sheets, material for making clothing, except for heavy winter clothing, low, flat-type shoes in a smaller size for both men and women, thread for sewing, blankets, and quilts.

Athletic equipment and toys are badly needed by the children. Also, any item of first aid is very useful. Most of these items need not be new because regardless of how worn they may seem, they can be put to good use there.

Because air mail is expensive, all contributions should be sent parcel post. It may take the shipment from thirty to forty days to reach its destination, but it will be well received upon its arrival.

Mr. Driver said in his letter that the interest shown already in this campaign indicates that the American people's hearts are in the right place.

Stanley Gex, Alumnus, Visits College Campus

Mr. Stanley J. Gex, Cincinnati, Ohio, visited on the campus April 13. Mr. Gex was graduated from the College in 1935 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education, majoring in mathematics and science.

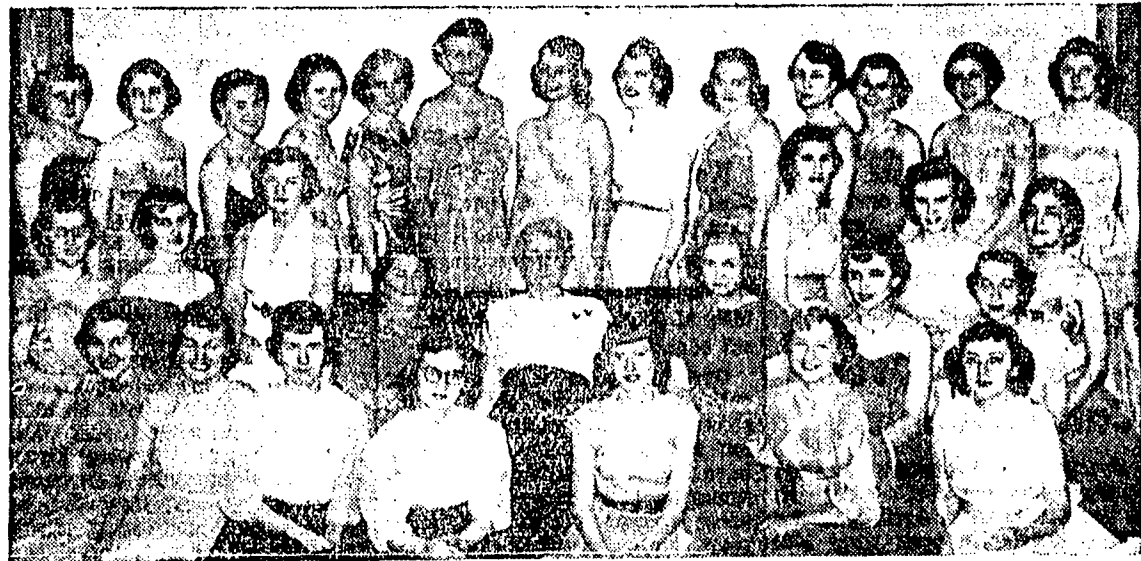

For the past five years he has been teaching secondary education, emphasizing guidance and counseling, at the University of Cincinnati.

Mr. Gex is presently visiting friends and relatives in Nodaway County.

"April In Paris" Is Theme Of Delta-TEKE Spring Formal

Members of the Delta Epsilon sorority and the colony of Tau Kappa Epsilon gave a joint spring formal April 25, 1953, in the Student Union lounge.

Using the theme "April In Paris" the organizations transported their guests in imagination to the exciting side walk cafes of Paris. Street scenes and umbrellas decorated the room with the Eiffel Tower towering over all.

The intermission program consisted of two songs by the Delta girls, "April In Paris," and "April Showers." The Tekes presented a quartet number.

Crown Rose Queen

During intermission the Tekes honored their senior girls by singing "The Rose of Delta Sigma Epsilon." At this time the outstanding senior girl in the sorority for the 1952-53 school year was crowned their Rose queen.

TEKE Talk

Here is something. Ten members of our Colony attended the National TEKE Conclave at Kansas City, April 11 and 12. Those attending reported that they received invaluable instruction in organization work.

Preparations were made for the Delta-TEKE joint spring formal which was held April 25 in the Union. The theme of the dance was "April In Paris." About seventy couples attended.

Two national TEKE officers visited the Colony Wednesday night, April 22.

Phi Sig Review

By PETE AND RE-PETE

Notice: The "Showboat" will soon be here to bring the you the Phi Sig Frolics of 1953. The opening night will be May 5 and continue every night through May 6. Be sure to reserve those two nights for your enjoyment. At these dates we shall present, with great pride and many misgivings, the fun-loving, marsh-provoking, hilarious purveyors of laughter and frolic, the many end-men of our show. With them will be numerous specialty acts; also red hot Dixieland music from the band. The grand finale will come with the entire company singing those never-to-be-forgotten Negro favorites.

We heard many good comments on the Phi Sig display on Parents' Day. Our thanks go to Bob Douglas and Harry Yungshlager for a fine job of planning and setting-up this display. We had open house Parents' Day and received many guests during the day. Everyone enjoyed the coffee and cookies prepared by Mrs. Elliott.

Jerry White was nearly banished from the Phi Sig House last week when it was discovered he had in his possession a Tek tooth brush. He was found guilty of the crime, but pleaded temporary insanity and was acquitted.

Kenny Holmes' lost pledge pin has finally showed up. It was found at Cheyenne, Wyoming, in his newly-acquired sister-in-law's suitcase. Kenny has nothing to say as to how it got there.

The Phi Sig Orchid Ball was certainly a great success this year, with a host of actives and alumni present. We were proud to have four past presidents of Nu chapter of Phi Sigma Epsilon at the dance. At this time we want to congratulate Herschel Neil upon receiving the "Phi Sig of the Year" award, presented at the intermission of the dance.

Last Friday night we spent an enjoyable evening roller-skating at Grant City. This party was given by the pledges in honor of the actives. Many thanks to you fellows for a grand evening.

Two of our brothers, Herschel Neil and Stan Butt, have given their fraternity pins to their girls. Congratulations, Herschel and Beverly; Stan and Mildred.

DON'T FORGET THE PHI SIG FROLICS, MAY 5 AND 6.

rather it is a series of short pieces in various styles for pleasant diversion and relaxation. Probably its original name "Serenade" is more appropriate than "Nocturne."

Feature Brahms and Milhaud

In the second portion of their program, Mr. and Mrs. Sandford played "Sonata in Eb Major," Opus 120, No. 2, by Johannes Brahms and "Second Sonata" by Darius Milhaud.

The "Sonata in Eb Major" was written originally for clarinet and piano. It is Brahms' last chamber music work and is full of the mellowness and serenity of years. The transfer from clarinet to viola increases the difficulties in some respects. Some of the ornamental figures which are perfectly logical and normal for the clarinet are by no means easy for the viola.

Influenced by Rhythms

Darius Milhaud, composer of the "Second Sonata," has always been known as an experimenter. His work is strongly influenced by South American and jazz rhythms. One of his favorite devices is writing in more than one key simultaneously which produces both shocking and very beautiful effect. The movements of the "Second Sonata" (Rustic, Dramatic, and Rude) are just as their titles imply. In the last he figuratively sticks his tongue out at the gentle ears of those who like music of the "Pink Lemonade" type.

This was the third recital presented by Mr. and Mrs. Sandford since coming to Maryville in 1950. Mr. Sandford played his Ranevi viola, made by a renowned viola maker of modern times. This viola has an unusually beautiful tone quality.

Bearcats Lose Final Event To Drop Meet to Jewell

Cardinals Sweep Discus Contest to Eke Out a 70-66 Dual Track Meet Victory Over Maryville

A clean sweep in the final event on the program, the discus, gave William Jewell a 70-66 dual meet victory over Maryville's Bearcats Monday at Memorial Stadium.

Coach Ryland Milner's team fought an uphill battle all the way and scored a stirring victory in the mile relay to take a 66-61 lead before the Jewell trio of John Fisher, Al Conway and Laurel Hobek swept the discus and gave the visitors the meet.

The meet was one of the best on the local circuit in the past three years with individual performances by Maryville's Jack Spence, George Coulter and Loren Putney highlighting an entertaining afternoon. As expected, the winning Cardinals were led by Conway who accounted for 14 1/2 points via first places in the shot put and 440 and second in the discus and a leg on the winning 880 relay team. Conway had to go all out to win his favorite event, the 440, as Maryville's Rick Tilton pressed him to the tape, losing by a scant two feet in the good time of 52.8.

Spence kept his undefeated spring string going by nailing two wins over Jewell's Bobby Nield in the 100 and 220. In the century, Spence got a bad start and picked up speed to go ahead at the 80 yard mark and managed to eke out a chest and head win over the smaller field. In the 220, he won going away in the good time of 23.1, his fastest of the season.

Coulter, continued his winning ways in the hurdle events by twice defeating the visitors' freshman ace Jack Erickson. Coulter now has won 8 straight races including the indoor championships.

Other local runners and jumpers to come in for top money were Hubert Sharp, who topped 6-2 in the high jump for his best mark of the year and the mile relay team of Spence, Bill Burnside, Coulter and Tilton.

The results:

Sore arms, sunburns, and spring fever seem to be dominating the scene lately. Class attendance might even be dropping. C'est la vie!

Intramurals are hitting at a fast pace with several good pitchers showing up on the softball scene. Lots of competition.

Golf is underway; but so far the participation is not up to expectations. All that is required is to go out and play with someone from a group other than your own. Any time you can better your score, you can go back to Dr. Peterson's office and change it on your card.

The tennis team can be seen daily in diligent workouts for the coming meets. They are probably not the best in the world, but each is a strong competitor who deserves plenty of credit for his attempt to make another record of which the Bearcats can be proud.

The "M" Club has chosen a queen and four attendants to reign over the high school district track meet held here at the College. It was surprising how many girls sent pictures and seemed to be so interested in the school.

Officers have been elected for the "M" Club for the coming year. They are Bob Kariger, president; Don Palmer, vice-president; Duane Freeman, secretary-treasurer; Jim Gillette, sergeant-at-arms; Garold Walker, parliamentarian; and John Garner and Bill Baldwin, publicity managers.

The "M" Club presented their usual program for senior day, one which depicted the various indoor activities offered by the physical education department.

Happy to see members of the faculty participating in the softball games. Such things make the student see that no matter what phase of education one is in, he is still an athlete at heart.

Has anyone noticed that there have been some boatmen on the College pond lately? Herschel Martin, Don Corbin, George Coulter, and Paul Tobin, to name a few.

Don Palmer, Bearcat football player last fall, has injured his knee and will not be able to participate in the forthcoming track events. His injury has hindered the track crew, as Don was slated to chalk up some valuable points.

With grass turning green and the weather getting warm there seem to be many activities scheduled for the coming month.

Intramural Notes

Any student interested in competing in the intramural golf tournaments must have his score card filed in Dr. Don Peterson's office by May 11.

The All-States club is still leading the pack in the intramural league race with competition remaining in only four sports—golf, tennis, softball, and horse shoes.

First-round action is currently underway in the tennis tournaments. Contestants chalking up wins to date are Weldon Dowden, Bob Smith, Willy Williamson, Neal Bullock, Jim Rood, Don Norton, Rick Tilton, Ono Monachino, Milo Van Hoozer, and Frank Russell.

Two softball tournaments are being set up by the Intramural Commission this spring. One will be played with the traditional twelve-inch ball and the other with the new sixteen-inch ball.

Dr. Peterson reports that the use of the sixteen-inch ball necessitates greater skill in fielding as the percentage of hits is much higher than with the twelve-inch ball. This game lessens the importance of the pitcher and the catcher and emphasizes team balance instead.

"School Days" Is Theme Used In Annual Dance Club Recital

By MELVA HEITS

"School Days" was the theme of the annual Dance Club recital given at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, April 16, in the College auditorium. The recital was given under the direction of Miss M. Doris Hysler of the physical education department.

Opening the recital was a number entitled "Along the Way" which showed the different types of children and the attitudes which they have toward attending school. Costumes for this number, consisted of green mortar boards and short green gowns resembling the caps and gowns that are used in graduation exercises. Of course there were a few deviations such as the pupil who brought no books, but a fishing pole.

Next on the program was "The Three R's." Three dancers dressed as little girls with big hair bows depicted reading, writing, and arithmetic to the music of "Three Blind Mice."

Folk dances from different parts of the world made up the geography lesson for the day. These dances were done by members of the folk and square dancing class.

Intermission coincided exactly with lunch period, a time that comes in every school day.

After lunch the pupils took up social studies. A dance entitled "Boy Meets Girl" was done to depict boys and girls reactions to each other.

Gym class was next with four dancers dressed in white with colored sashes at their waists playing golf, archery, and tennis to music. This dance was done by four physical education majors.

Art class, consisting of dances, done to represent a color wheel, comprised the finale of the program.

Red, the first color of the color wheel, was represented by three dancers portraying a fire goddess and her worshippers.

A dance to "Indian Summer" represented orange, and three dancers dressed as yellow flowers did a dance to "Sunrise Serenade." A waltz was done for green, and Barbara Hoffman did a solo to "Blue Moon" for blue.

Purple, the last number of the program, showed the three reactions, fear, love, and submission, that people have toward an object.

Members of the Dance Club, who participated in the recital were Jo Ann Burke, Melva Heits, Barbara Hoffman, Jo Magnuson, Kay Sheridan, and Gerry Struck.

Choreography for the recital was done by members of the Dance Club. The many varied costumes were designed and made by Miss M. Doris Hysler.

Mr. Ralph Fulson, of the speech department, was technical director of the recital and Pat Peterson and Carolyn Criswell were accompanists.

Jack Turner and John Lee Thompson were in charge of the lighting, and Mr. Robert F. Gee, of the speech department, and Opal Carson were in charge of makeup for the program.

Pem Club members helped with the clothes changes that needed to be made between numbers.

Bearcats Down Tarkio Owls To Gain Second Track Win

Maryville's fighting Bearcat crew scored their second dual meet win of the season by rolling over the Tarkio Owls, 103 1/2 to 32 1/2, Thursday, April 23.

Coach Ryland Milner's squad looked impressive as they snared 13 first places with Jack Spence, George Coulter, and Jim Gillette, each notching double wins.

Hubert Sharp took high point honors for the winners as he totaled 15 points. Sharp collected a first in the high jump, second in both hurdles and the broad jump, and a third in the javelin throw. Jim Gillette was second high for the Bearcat aggregation with twelve points. Floyd Hall was the pacesetter for the Owls with 10 points.

Duane Freeman, Bill Burnside, Coulter, and Spence, the Bearcats' 880-yard relay team, shaved a full second off their time in the meet with Peru to cover the distance in 1:33.4. The winners finished the event with a 15-yard edge over a good Owl relay team.
